The data center enables fast and efficient work with data within integrated data center technologies - Apache Hadoop, iRODS and others. It allows you to process large data sets (Big Data) coming from different resources - medical data, data collected from transport and traffic flows, industrial production, intelligent places or from banking. The data processed in this way can then be further analyzed and visualized according to requirements within the specified research task.