

university
science
park
University of Zilina

Research laboratory of critical infrastructure protection systems

The intention of the Research laboratory of critical infrastructure protection systems is to be able to create various polygons of protective systems on which experimental research is carried out on the resilience, efficiency and reliability of individual elements of these systems (e.g. mechanical restraint systems, alarm systems).

---

Technology for research into systems for the protection of critical infrastructure facilities in the transport sector